

CROUZET

Installed at stations in the Strathclyde PTE area and was first used from 1st December 1984.

The machine has buttons for 160 destinations plus buttons for the ticket types. When a destination is selected, the station appears on a display, as is the ticket type when it is selected. A further display then shows the fare due. Tickets show the issuing station followed by the destination in double width characters. The machine number is shown as e.g. MN=112-01. 112 being the station code number, followed by the machine number. The number to the right of the fare is the ticket number. Two tickets are issued for returns, the outward ticket being identical to singles. The return ticket has the stations transposed and since no ticket type is shown, reference should be made to the station code number to determine the station of issue.

Initially, machines were installed at stations on the Airdrie to Partick line, Dumbarton East and three Underground stations. Now, they are only in use at Glasgow Central and Queen Street.
