

CROYDON TRAMLINK

SCHLUMBERGER

These are free standing machines with a monitor screen display and a rotating knob with a central push button for the ticket selection. Turning the knob highlights the stops in turn. When the required stop is selected, the button is pressed. The display then shows the ticket types, which are selected in the same way. Payment is then made.

METRIC ACCENT

Introduced on 24th August 2000 to permit people arriving at Wimbledon with LU or NR tickets to Wimbledon who required to travel onwards via Tramlink, without having to pass through the ticket barrier to re-book. The machines are the latest type currently used in pay and display car parks and issue a ticket after coins of the required value are inserted and a button pressed. Adult and Child single tickets only are issued.
