

Shere FASTticket

Manufactured by Shere Self Service Techniques of Gomshall, Surrey, the FASTticket machine made its début in 1996 with a trial installation at Chelmsford. Part of the “New Generation” of passenger-operated machines, a touch-screen interface is used to select tickets for purchase at the time or to pick up pre-booked tickets ordered online. When tickets have been pre-booked, this option is selected on the screen; the credit card used for the booking is inserted for verification and then removed. The screen then displays a “keyboard” where a PIN number, obtained at the time of booking, is entered, after which the tickets are issued.

- Machine numbers are listed sequentially in the first column, followed by the standard location name as it appears on travel tickets (the designation on Receipts, Card Vouchers etc. will sometimes be different). In the next column is the existing NLC, region letter and position number of that machine, if any. Next are the equivalent details for any positions which have existed in the past but which do not now (for example, if a machine originally producing tickets in the “original” format has been converted to Common Stock format, or where a machine has been removed). “C/X” indicates the type of machine, if this is known beyond doubt: “C” indicates a machine which accepts cash and cards, while “X” indicates a card-only location. Finally, there are sometimes relevant notes about a machine, such as its precise location within a multi-machine station, or a former name rendering which differs from the current or what is expected.
- In most cases, where a station is part of a “group” (such as one of the London termini, Wigan North Western, East Croydon or many other examples), travel tickets will show the group name as the station of origin (LONDON TERMINALS, WIGAN STATIONS, CROYDON STATIONS and so on). However, the location’s real designation is shown for completeness and to reflect what would be seen on One Day Travelcards, Receipts and similar.
- Tickets in the “original” format are indicated by blue type.
- Tickets in the “new” (Common Stock) format are indicated by red type.
- In the early days, some locations at which FASTticket machines were installed shared their NLCs with major “base” locations, rather than being allocated their own in the normal way. This was noted on the Great Western network, and to a lesser extent on Virgin (where Glasgow Central and Edinburgh both used NLC 2342 for a time). There was an isolated example involving machine 4005 at Peterborough using the NLC of Leeds (6497), but this could have been a temporary error. Confirmed Great Western examples:
  - Both Cardiff Central and Newport (Gwent) used NLC 1779. Cardiff Central’s single machine was initially allocated position number W81, with Newport being W82, but Newport subsequently converted to 1779W81 as well before being allocated its own NLC (1967)
  - Both Swindon and Chippenham used NLC 1895. Swindon’s single machine was initially allocated position number W81, with Chippenham being W82, but Chippenham gained its own NLC (8841) and had its machine redesignated W81. Both stations subsequently had more machines installed.
  - Reading (NLC 1893) had five machines: W81 to W85 inclusive. Three other stations used this NLC: the single machine at Didcot Parkway was designated 1893W86, while Bath Spa was 1893W87 and Bristol Temple Meads was 1893W88. These three were changed to 1860W81, 1803W81 and 8809W81 respectively, and all three stations have subsequently gained additional machines with the new NLC and numbered upwards from W82.
  - Taunton shared NLC 1896 with Bristol Parkway for a time, with Taunton’s single position being allocated 1896W83. It was subsequently changed to 1802W81, and Bristol Parkway was given a third machine using the designation 1896W83.
