

TRIBUTE

Tribute was first used at London St.Pancras from 21st January 1994. It was intended as a replacement for APTIS, giving a greater flexibility in the issue of tickets.

The system basically consists of a Personal Computer (PC) and two printers. One printer issuing APTIS size tickets for local journeys, seasons, railcards, platform tickets and London Underground travel. The other printer issuing ATB (Automated Ticket & Boarding) tickets. ATB tickets show all journey details, including seat reservations if necessary. Tribute can also issue tickets for the Eurostar services.

Tickets for local journeys etc. use existing APTIS cards, Russet printers print tickets in the same layout as APTIS, but producing a more solid character. Some stations, notably on GNER are now using Swecoin printers. These produce a much darker character on which a different card stock is used - RSP7599.

ATB tickets measure 82mm x 203mm, two tickets being issued for returns. They show the journey details, validity and seat reservation details. If more space is required, a second ticket is issued. Issuing office details are printed along the bottom, showing issuing station NLC, window and machine number, ticket number and date and time of issue. Additionally, on the return ticket, the date of outward travel is shown together with the NLC's of the outward stations and the route code. The tickets were originally pre-printed showing the INTER CITY title, but have now been replaced by the same card as that used for Eurostar tickets.

If an ATB ticket is issued for a journey to a LU Zone 1 station, or requires a cross London transfer, an APTIS size 'Gate Pass' ticket is also issued allowing access through the London Underground ticket barriers.

EPS tickets are printed in a different layout, but show all journey and reservation details. The ticket number is shown in the bottom left, but apart from the reference number, the purpose of the other numbers is unknown. To gain access to the platforms, the tickets are inserted into gates. A line of text is printed on the reverse, e.g. ■ # WIT 05 1205 which shows the station code, gate number and time of entry.

Following a software upgrade during 1999, the window number of some machines were renumbered. Locations with a single machine numbered 48 became 49 and those with two machines numbered 48 and 49 became 46 and 47 respectively.

The list indicates which types of tickets have been seen:

CC Tickets on APTIS size card g - Gate Pass. Only indicated where normal travel ticket not seen.
 Note: All CC tickets are printer by Russett printer except those suffixed by 's' which are printed by Swecoin printer.
